Air travel demand in the US during the last month has been relatively stable at around 90% of the level seen during the same period in 2019. Given that capacity levels appear to also be at around 90%, this suggests that airline load factors are comparable with what they were back in 2019.

Air Service One has identified and confirmed 100 new routes that launched in North America during the last four weeks. This included new US domestic routes from Allegiant, Frontier and Spirit, as well as new routes from newcomers Avelo and Breeze. In Canada, Air Canada, Air Transat, Flair, Lynx, Porter and Swoop have been busy expanding their domestic and transborder networks.

There were several new routes added between Europe and North America during May. Air Canada, Air France, Air Transat and WestJet all commenced new connections between Canada and Europe, while Condor, Delta, Eurowings Discover, Icelandair, PLAY, TUI Airways, Turkish Airlines, United and Virgin Atlantic all introduced new services between the US and Europe.
